ABOUT THE LIST

Rather than strictly by region or grape variety, the bottles on the list are placed within larger categories of art styles, using texture, color and contrast as ways to explain them. Art is experienced more often and universally than wine so the terminology surrounding it can be more comfortable for many of our guests. We hope you have fun the concept and ask any questions that come up. If you are looking to find something specific and would like to avoid scanning the list please always feel free to call over someone on our wine team.

The spices and flavors of the menu are held in strong consideration when choosing wines for the program. Within any style you choose to drink we guide you towards a great pairing with the current menu.

Sustainability is important to us. Virtually all bottles on the list are made with grapes farmed at minimum sustainably, but the majority are farmed organically, or biodynamically. The producers of these bottles tend to avoid adding or taking away anything unnecessary in the cellar so that the resulting wines are full of life and energy with a strong sense of place.

Whether this will be your first bottle or if you've lost count, whether you want to spend $60, $250 or $1000+ tonight, we're excited to help you find something you'll love.

An impressionist painting, likely by J.M.W. Turner, showing a landscape with a body of water and a distant building. The brushstrokes are visible and textured, with a palette of blues, greys, and earthy tones. A white rectangular box is overlaid on the center of the painting, containing text.

Impressionism

Impressionist painters used distinct brushstrokes of opaque paint, blurring details to create unmistakable movement, light, and life on the canvas

Craft

Wines with a very unique style and sense of place, often involving the use of ancient winemaking methods

In the wake of the Industrial Revolution, the Arts and Crafts movement was an attempt to highlight the value of handmade goods in an increasingly mass-produced market. The movement was utilized by female artists to elevate the public's view on domestic crafts, such as sewing, embroidery, and needlework to a level of "high art"
